Frontline Workshop

Consistent training in electronic payments is critical to the success of any organization. Your Customer/ Member Service Staff is often the first point of contact for account holder questions and inquiries. Can your frontline staff explain the ACH to your customers or members? Is your staff comfortable enough with their knowledge level to sell the safety, efficiency, convenience and cost savings associated with electronic payments? It's important they thoroughly understand the functionality of the ACH in order to provide excellent service to your account holders, especially when problems arise. This session provides an overview of the ACH network from a customer/ member service point of view, including defining the participants and explaining the transaction flow. An overview of ACH applications and their corresponding rules and regulations will be presented to ensure a clear understanding of ACH problem resolution.
